5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO.US

NIKKI M. MASCALI, REPORTER

You've surely heard the old adage of something "going to the dogs," but it appears that New York City is going to the cats when it comes to the preferred tenants in pet-friendly buildings. New data from NeighborhoodX shows that felines have a cat-hair-thin edge with property owners over their canine rivals, which makes this pup parent say "woof." 'CORNERSTORE CAROLINE' APOLOGIZES FOR GROPE LIE

1 A white Brooklyn woman has come under fire for accusing a black child of groping her inside a Brooklyn deli. Teresa Klein, a.k.a. "Cornerstore Caroline," accused the unnamed child of touching her backside at Sahara Deli Market on Wednesday. Klein apologized on camera with a television reporter there at the scene, adding that she did not make the accusation out of racism. "Young man," she said, "I don't know your name, but I'm sorry." Meanwhile, Jason Littlejohn, who recorded the incident, and others from the community are still upset and want the police to press charges against Klein for her allegations. Littlejohn recorded a portion of the incident on his cellphone, capturing Klein on her phone outside the store. Littlejohn uploaded the video to his Facebook page. By Friday, the video had more than four million views. In the video, Klein can be heard reporting to police the 9-year-old boy, who was shopping with his mother and another child at the deli: "I was just sexually assaulted by a child." SARAH LUOMA

RETALIATION THREATENED BY SAUDIS IF SANCTIONED

2 Saudi Arabia on Sunday warned against threats to punish it over last week's disappearance of journalist Jamal Khashoggi, as European and U.S. allies piled on pressure. Khashoggi, a U.S. resident and Washington Post columnist critical of Riyadh's policies, disappeared on Oct. 2 after entering the Saudi consulate in Istanbul. Turkey believes he was murdered and his body removed. Saudi Arabia has denied that. U.S. President Donald Trump has threatened "severe punishment" if it turns out Khashoggi was killed in the consulate, though he said Washington would be "punishing" itself if it halted military sales to Riyadh. "The Kingdom affirms its total rejection of any threats and attempts to undermine it, whether by threatening to impose economic sanctions, using political pressures, or repeating false accusations," the official Saudi Press Agency (SPA) quoted an unnamed official as saying. "The Kingdom also affirms that if it receives any action, it will respond with greater action, and that the Kingdom's economy has an influential and vital role in the global economy," the official added, without elaborating.

'MALCOLM X AVENUE' NEW STREET NAME IN TURKEY

4 City authorities in Turkey's capital Ankara have renamed the street where the new U.S. Embassy is being built "Malcolm X Avenue" after the U.S. civil rights leader, state media reported. The move coincides with a period of fraught relations between Turkey and the United States and comes after other politically charged name changes to streets in Ankara. In February, the city renamed the street outside the current U.S. Embassy "Olive Branch," which is what Turkey called one of its military campaigns in Syria. Ankara is at odds with Washington over its backing of forces led by the Kurdish YPG militia, which Turkey views as a terrorist group. Radical U.S. civil rights leader Malcolm X remains a divisive figure in U.S. history and Ankara's move will likely be received negatively by critics who say he stirred racist and anti-U.S. sentiment. "The street was given the name of U.S. Muslim politician and human rights defender Malcolm X, about whom President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said 'we will make his name live on in Ankara,'" Ankara's municipality said in a statement on Saturday.

INTERNET PARTIALLY RESTORED FOR ASSANGE

5 Ecuador has restored partial internet access to WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange, who took refuge in the country's London Embassy more than six years ago, WikiLeaks and an Assange lawyer said separately on Sunday. The move comes nearly six months after the Ecuadorean government suspended Assange's communications in March, after he discussed issues on social media that could damage the country's diplomatic relations, including a diplomatic crisis between London and Moscow as well as Catalonian separatism. "Ecuador rolls back @JulianAssange isolation," WikiLeaks said in a message on Twitter. The change was also confirmed by Assange's Australian legal adviser, Greg Barns, who called it "a welcome development." An Assange spokesman said his communications have been only partially restored. Assange took refuge in Ecuador's London Embassy after British courts ordered his extradition to Sweden to face questioning in a sexual molestation case. That case has since been dropped. But supporters say Assange now fears he could be arrested and eventually extradited to the U.S. if he leaves the embassy.

Data reveals cats more welcome in city apartments than dogs

The never-ending war between cats and dogs wages on, this time in NYC apartments.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
nikki.mascali@metro.us

GETTY IMAGES

Dogs are among the most beloved New Yorkers, but new data shows that their archrivals may actually be more welcome tenants in NYC apartments.

That's right, according to new data from real estate and analytics firm NeighborhoodX, cats have a slight edge over dogs when it comes to pet-friendly listings for NYC apartments.

The study found that pet-friendly listings for studio apartments were 51.3 percent in favor of cats versus 47.7 percent for dogs, while one-bedrooms were 54.9 percent for cats and 51.2 percent for dogs. Listings for two-bedroom NYC apartments had the smallest difference, with 57.5 percent more cat-friendly versus 54.9 percent dog-friendly.

"All of the sudden I am seeing so many buildings setting dog restrictions in breed and weight, in both sales and rentals," said Triplemint agent Phillip Salem. "I have had many clients lose out on their apartments because their dog weighs over 75 pounds. It is very sad because I am such a huge animal advocate, and these animals are like children to my clients, so losing out on their dream home because of a 10-pound weight-limit difference is not only disappointing, but disheartening."

Allison Chiaramonte of Warburg Realty recently had rentals in a pet-friendly Upper East Side condo building that had a "very limiting" 40-pound weight restriction for dogs but "no mention of cat restrictions," she said. "Also, many rentals simply aren't allowing dogs, full stop."

So why are NYC apartments going to the cats?

"It was surprising," Constantine Valhouli, director of research at NeighborhoodX, said of the data. "The slight preference shown to cats isn't significant from a stats and analysis point of view, but talking to property managers and building owners, it turns out they're doing this as a result of poorly trained dogs that are loud, that are barking at night, and also the wear-and-tear a larger dog might do with nails with the rise of hardwood floors."

Valhouli said NeighborhoodX didn't see specific neighborhoods with more cat-friendly or dog-friendly NYC apartments. However, "areas where the housing stock lends itself to approximating the suburbs in the city just by default are more dog-friendly," he said, such as Greenpoint or Williamsburg, where there are more single-family homes or properties converted into multi-family dwellings.

Those, Valhouli added, "just lend [themselves] to dogs, as does older housing stock where it has that slightly scuffed character already, which is completely happy when you have a tumble of puppies coming in and out."

Enjoy a special interest rate for 12 months with new money deposits of at least $25,000 and a minimum daily account balance of $25,000 or more.

Fixed Rate CD

2.30% Annual Percentage Yield for 11 months[2]

Guaranteed fixed rate with new money deposits of at least $25,000 for an 11-month term.

Both accounts are FDIC-insured up to the maximum allowable limit. Platinum Savings offer available in CT, FL and NY. Fixed Rate CD offer available in CT, FL, NY and WA. Portfolio by Wells Fargo® customers are eligible to receive an additional interest rate bonus on these accounts.[3]

1. To qualify for this offer, you must have a new or existing Platinum Savings account and enroll the account in this offer between 10/15/2018 and 11/16/2018. This offer is subject to change at any time, without notice. This offer is available only to Platinum Savings customers in the following states: CT, FL and NY. In order to earn the Special Interest Rate of 1.69% (Special Rate), you must deposit $25,000 in new money (from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., or its affiliates) to the enrolled savings account and maintain a minimum daily account balance of $25,000 throughout the term of this offer. The corresponding Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for this offer is 1.70%. The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12-month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000 minimum, the Special Rate will not apply and the interest rate will revert to the standard interest rate applicable to your Platinum Savings account. As of 09/18/2018, the standard interest rate and APY for a Platinum Savings account in CT, FL and NY with an account balance of $0.01 to $99,999.99 is 0.03% (0.03% APY) and with an account balance of $100,000 and above is 0.05% (0.05% APY). Each tier shown reflects the current minimum daily collected balance required to obtain the applicable APY. Interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. The amount of interest earned is based on the daily collected balances in the account. Upon the expiration of the 12-month promotional period, standard interest rates apply. Minimum to open a Platinum Savings account is $25. A monthly service fee of $12 applies in any month the account falls below a $3,500 minimum daily balance. Fees may reduce earnings. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. Offer not available to Private Banking, Business Banking, Wholesale or Wealth customers. 2. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 10/15/2018 to 11/16/2018. The 11-month New Dollar CD special requires a minimum of $25,000 brought to Wells Fargo from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank N.A., or its affiliates to earn the advertised APY. Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. A fee for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the special rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. APY shown offered at Wells Fargo Bank locations in CT, FL, NY and WA. Due to the new money requirement, accounts may only be opened at your local branch. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Offer cannot be: Combined with any other consumer deposit offer, or reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred or traded. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. If you wish to take advantage of another consumer deposit offer requiring a minimum new money deposit, you will be required to do so with another new money deposit as stated in the offer requirements and qualifications. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRAs) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waivers on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank's then-current applicable rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed.

Council member makes pitch for NYC Ferry route in West Harlem

The last day to give input on the next NYC Ferry route is Monday and "125th Street is crying out for ferry service," Council Member Mark Levine said.

Monday is the last day for New Yorkers to give their input on where the next NYC Ferry route should be, and one elected official is making a case for West Harlem.

District 7 Council Member Mark Levine told Metro on Friday: "125th Street is crying out for ferry service. We've already built the pier — this is a $30 million investment to build a wonderful, modern West Harlem pier."

From the early 1800s until it was demolished in 1965, the West Harlem pier was a hotbed of transportation activity, including a regular ferry that crossed the Hudson River to Palisades Amusement Park in Edgewater, New Jersey. The pier reopened in 2009 as part of the Manhattan Waterfront Greenway and "included infrastructure for a new ferry landing — making this site an ideal location for NYC Ferry service," Levine wrote in a letter to the NYC Economic Development Corporation on Friday, which he shared exclusively with Metro.

In addition to providing shortened commutes and more transit options for New Yorkers as it's done along the East River from Soundview, Bronx, and to Rockaway, a Harlem NYC Ferry route would also reconnect Manhattan and New Jersey via a seven-minute commute across the Hudson, Levine said.

> "This is a $30M investment to build a wonderful modern West Harlem pier."
> Council Member Mark Levine

"New Jersey commuters who now drive across the George Washington Bridge and add to our already congested streets would be able to commute by ferry and leave their cars at home," he wrote.

While Levine does not have exact numbers of how many uptown residents commute to New Jersey, "I do know the new GWB bus terminal is a 50-50 commuting pattern, with as many people going to New Jersey as is coming in due to job growth in Bergen County," he said.

Levine's proposed West Harlem NYC Ferry route is near the 125th Street stop on the 1 train and several Citi Bike docking stations, with the 125th Street ABCD station a 15-minute walk away.

The NYCEDC told Metro that it's received nearly 3,000 suggestions for the next NYC Ferry route.

Worshippers at Hiland Park Baptist Church attend Sunday service in the parking area of the church on Sunday, after the building was damaged by Hurricane Michael. Hurricane Michael slammed into the Florida Panhandle on Oct. 10 as a Category 4 storm, causing massive damage and claiming the lives of 18 people.

Members of City of Miami Fire-Rescue look for victims in a building in Mexico Beach, Florida, in the aftermath of Hurricane Michael on Friday. Rescue teams using sniffer dogs carried out a grim search for victims.

Hopes fade for more survivors of Hurricane Michael

At least 18 people have been killed due to the hurricane.

The hunt for missing people in the aftermath of Hurricane Michael early Sunday is turning into a search for the dead, as hope of finding more people alive fades in the Florida Panhandle, U.S. officials said.

"We're going into recovery mode, unfortunately," said Fire Chief Alex Baird of Panama City, one of the coastal Florida communities clobbered by the hurricane that made landfall Wednesday as a Category 4 storm, packing more than 140 mph winds and deadly storm surges.

"At sunrise, we'll start again on our search," Baird said. "We hope that we'll find more [survivors], but it's more and more doubtful."

President Donald Trump is expected to visit both Florida and Georgia early this week to inspect the damage, and the White House said late Saturday the president was fully committed to helping state and local agencies with the recovery.

The death toll of the storm reached at least 18 Saturday night and is expected to rise in the Southeast as rescuers go door-to-door in coastal communities in Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas.

Search and rescue volunteers have already located hundreds of people reported missing last week.

On Saturday, rescue crews heard cries for help and crowbarred into a mobile home crumpled by the storm in Panama City, freeing a mother and daughter, both diabetics who had been trapped in a closet without insulin for two days and were on the verge of diabetic shock, rescuers said.

A lack of food and water is among the most pressing issues for people reeling from the storm, said one volunteer who had been working in the Panama City area.

Rescue teams, hampered by power and telephone outages, used cadaver dogs, drones and heavy equipment to hunt for people in the rubble.

More than 1,700 search and rescue workers were deployed, including seven swift-water rescue teams and nearly 300 ambulances, Florida Gov. Rick Scott's office said. REUTERS

Kushner 'likely' paid little or no income taxes for years: New York Times

Nothing in the docs, however, suggests any laws were broken.

$1.1M

In 2013 Kushner reported income taxes payable of $1.1 million.

Jared Kushner, President Donald Trump's son-in-law and a senior White House adviser, likely paid little or no federal income taxes between 2009 and 2016, the New York Times reported on Saturday, citing confidential financial documents.

The documents were created with Kushner's cooperation as part of a review of his finances by an institution that was considering lending him money, the Times reported. The Times said that Kushner's tax bills reflected the use of a tax benefit known as depreciation that lets real estate investors deduct part of the cost of their properties from their taxable income.

The Times report said that nothing in the documents reviewed "suggests Mr. Kushner or his company broke the law."

Peter Mirijanian, a spokesman for Kushner's lawyer Abbe Lowell, told Reuters on Saturday that he would not respond to the newspaper's assumptions, which he said were "taken from incomplete documents obtained in violation of the law and standard business confidentiality agreements."

He added: "Always following the advice of numerous attorneys and accountants, Mr. Kushner properly filed and paid all taxes due under the law and regulations."

The records reviewed by The New York Times did not expressly state how much Kushner paid in taxes, but included estimates for how much he owed called "income taxes payable" — and how much Kushner paid in expectation of forecasted taxes known as "prepaid taxes." The paper said that for most of the years covered, both were listed as zero, but in 2013 Kushner reported income taxes payable of $1.1 million.

Kushner Companies, the family company for which Kushner previously served as chief executive, has been profitable in recent years, the Times said, citing the analysis. Kushner sold his interests in the company to a family trust last year.

The White House and Kushner Cos. did not immediately comment Saturday.

The newspaper noted that the 2017 tax rewrite signed by Trump includes provisions that benefit real estate investors.

Mirijanian said that on tax reform efforts, Kushner "followed his approved ethics agreement and has avoided work that would pose any conflict of interest."

In December, a group of Democratic lawmakers wrote to Kushner, asking whether in his talks with foreign officials he had ever discussed financing for a deeply indebted property in midtown Manhattan, citing concern he was using his position for financial gain.

Kushner Cos. said previously it had more than $2.5 billion in transactions in 2017 and has 12 million square feet under development in New York and New Jersey.

Documents released by the White House in June showed Kushner held assets worth at least $181 million, the Associated Press reported. The disclosures also show that Kushner and his wife, Ivanka Trump, received at least $82 million in outside income in 2017. REUTERS

Rubio says US must take action over Saudi journalist

GETTY IMAGES

Republican Sen. Marco Rubio said the United States must confront Saudi Arabia or risk losing credibility on human rights, if allegations are proven true that the Saudi government orchestrated the killing of journalist Jamal Khashoggi.

"If we do not take action, including potentially arms sales, as a result of this, if it turns out to be what they say it is, then we are not going to be able to with a straight face or any credibility confront Putin or Assad or Maduro in Venezuela or frankly confront the Chinese and their human rights violations," Rubio said on Sunday in an interview with CBS' "Face the Nation."

Khashoggi went missing after entering the Saudi consulate in Istanbul, Turkey, on Oct 2. to retrieve documents for his forthcoming marriage. Turkish officials and his fiancée said he never came out.

Turkish sources have said they believe Khashoggi was killed inside the building and his body removed, allegations that Riyadh dismisses as baseless.

President Donald Trump vowed to get to the bottom of what happened in a separate CBS interview, due to be aired Sunday, and said there would be "severe punishment" if it were found Khashoggi was killed by the Saudi government.

But Trump also told reporters on Saturday that the United States must balance the economic benefit gained from an ongoing $110 billion arms deal with the Saudi military when planning a response.

Rubio said the arms deal may provide leverage in responding to the situation but it should not deter potential punishment.

"There's not enough money in the world to buy back our credibility on human rights if we do not move forward and take swift action," said Rubio.

Khashoggi is a columnist at The Washington Post, where he has written critically of the Saudi regime, including its young leader Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman.

"We can never be a voice for human rights anywhere in the world if we allow a situation like this to go forward and us do nothing about it," Rubio said. REUTERS

BRIEF

Indian minister calls allegations of sexual misconduct against him 'baseless'

Indian minister M.J. Akbar described multiple allegations of sexual harassment against him as "wild and baseless" on Sunday and added he plans to take legal action against the women who have made the accusations.

The comments by Akbar, 67, follow widespread calls on social media for his resignation from his post as the minister of state for external affairs in the Indian government, after at least 10 women came forward to accuse him of harassment in recent days.

"The allegations of misconduct made against me are false and fabricated, spiced up by innuendo and malice," said Akbar in a one-page statement given to Reuters partner ANI in India.

The veteran editor, who founded several publications, has been accused of a range of inappropriate behavior by female journalists who previously worked as his subordinates. Many journalists have called for Akbar to be sacked and have threatened to boycott events he is attending until he resigns.

The government has remained silent on the issue for days, while Akbar was attending a conference in Nigeria. REUTERS

Former 'AI' contestant arrested for heroin distribution

Antonella Barba, who has a troubled history, is now facing a felony drug distribution charge.

GETTY IMAGES

Former "American Idol" contestant Antonella Barba has been arrested for the distribution of heroin. The season 6 singer was booked on charges of felony drug distribution this past Thursday in Norfolk, Virginia, around 11:30 a.m.

The 31-year-old was arrested for the possession of 100 grams or more and is currently being held in a Norfolk jail without bail. She is due in court on Monday.

Barba appeared in the same season as "American Idol" winner Jordin Sparks. Barba made it into the top 16, but found herself voted out after several racy pictures of the young performer appeared online.

One of the photos featured Barba in a wet T-shirt posing at the World War II Memorial in Washington, D.C. Others showed Barba topless on the beach.

"The pictures that were released of me — the ones that are of me — they are very personal and that is not how I intended to portray myself nor do I intend to portray myself that way in the future," Barba said at the time.

The New Jersey native was also arrested back in 2011 for shoplifting at an Urban Outfitters in Manhattan.

This past March, Barba was seen in a "Where Are They Now?" segment on "Jimmy Kimmel Live!" alongside former "American Idol" stars William Hung and Haley Reinhart.

If convicted of heroin distribution, Barba faces anywhere from five to 40 years in prison.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Work for your supper

What it's like to dine at Zauo NYC, the Japanese restaurant where you catch your own fish.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

Interactive dining is the big trend in restaurants, and it doesn't get much more hands-on than Zauo NYC, the first U.S. outpost of the famous Japanese chain where diners catch their own fish.

Zauo NYC, opening today at 152 W. 24th St. in Chelsea, is a celebration of the ocean's bounty and a chance to get close to it in a way not many city dwellers get to. Along with wave motifs on the walls, lobster net chandeliers and porthole windows, the restaurant has three pools spread across two floors where diners use a fishing pole or net to grab what will turn up on their plates. We got to visit Zauo NYC on a preview night last week to get the full experience.

What it's like to eat at Zauo NYC

The first thing you see when entering Zauo NYC is the main fish pool. With your menu comes an extensive instructional folder of the fishing process, with notes on each species and the four styles of preparation: grilled, sashimi, simmered in soy sauce and tempura, with prices ranging from $38 to $125.

You can choose up to two preparations per fish, and one fish is more than enough for one person. Its carcass can also be turned into miso soup on request. Anglers must sign a waiver for possible injury or property damage, then receive a "fishing license" which doubles as a loyalty card — you get a surprise gift on your fifth visit. Note that you won't go hungry if you don't want to fish. Zauo NYC has plenty of appetizers, sushi (including tuna and salmon), soups, noodle and rice dishes, though the menu is almost entirely seafood-focused.

But guests who want the live fish are encouraged to catch it themselves — your meal is anywhere from $6 to $15 more expensive if you opt for one of the live fish but don't want to catch it yourself. The restaurant is still awaiting approval for a liquor license; until then, there's plenty of sake, wine and beer.

A striped bass prepared sashimi style.

How the fishing works

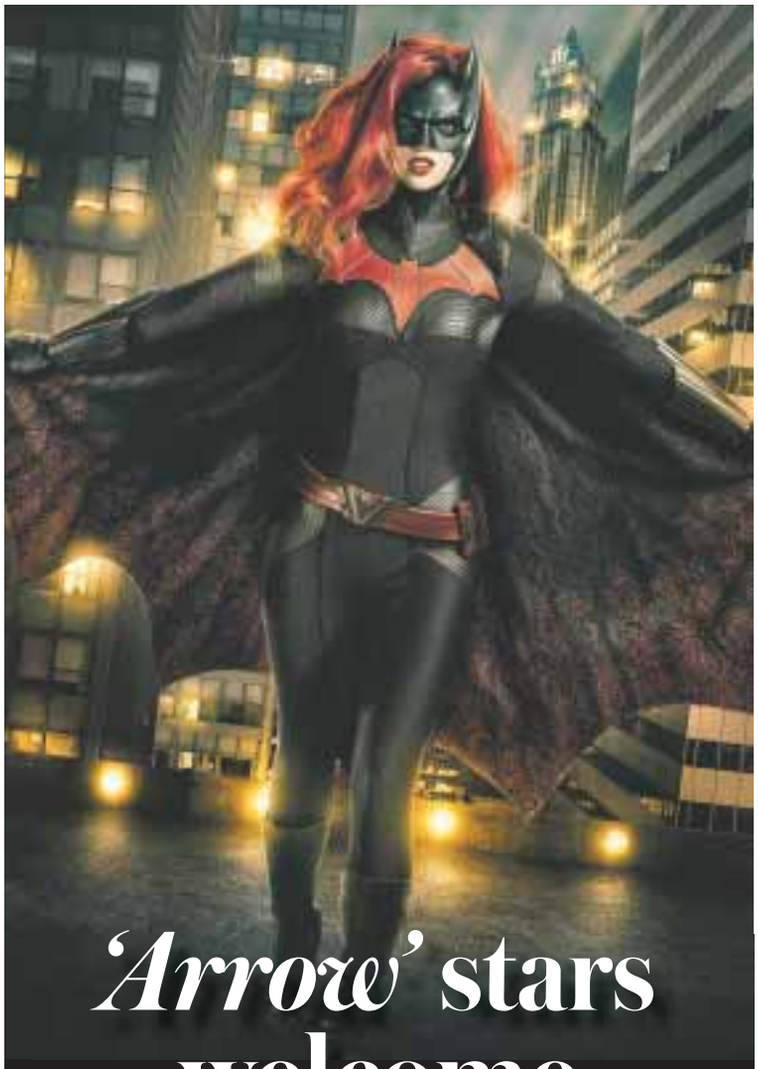
Licensed guests are escorted to their chosen tank — our options were rainbow trout, salmon trout, striped bass, fluke, flounder, rock fish, lobster, abalone and botan-ebi (Japanese prawns). Anglers are given a child-size fishing pole which is baited for them by their Fish Attendant and dangled, not cast, in the pool. Theoretically, you choose the fish you want to eat. In reality, as with real fishermen, you have to eat what's biting — there's no catch and release. On my outing, I had to jerk my bait away from several zealous rainbow trout while the striped bass kept swimming past it. Eventually, I deputized my fish attendant to use his net to snag one.

When the catch happens, the staff send up a restaurant-wide cheer and bang a taiko drum; you can also get a photo taken with your fish in the net. After this came the only uncomfortable part of my evening: I had to discuss the preparation options with the attendant as my fish flopped around in a crate by my feet. I nodded at his suggestions, too distracted to really listen, and scurried away. Death is a part of any meal involving an animal, of course, but it shouldn't be a slow one.

Why we love this idea

Most of us happily trade the difficulties of farm life for the concrete jungle, but this also severs the connection between us and our food. Petting zoos and aquariums are about as close as most people get to "food animals." The owners of Zauo NYC believe in changing that by putting you face-to-face with your meal. Besides the interactive factor, there's a virtuous side to dining at Zauo. Buying a fish in many restaurants — with the rare exception like Mayanoki, the East Village's acclaimed sustainable sushi restaurant — could mean you're eating species that are endangered, mislabeled, caught on boats thatuse slave labor, or dredged up with nets that destroy habitats and kill many other creatures in the process as bycatch.

For now, Zauo's fish come from farms on the East Coast and California, though the owners are working on the logistics of shipping live fish from Japanese farms. This means some of the Japanese preparations don't entirely suit the American fish — striped bass is a bit too firm and mild for sashimi —but our meal arrived beautifully presented, and both sashimi and simmered preparations were delicious.



Arrow stars welcome Ruby Rose's Batwoman with open arms

"Girl, get it."

matthew.juul@metro.us

Ahead of the "Arrow" season seven premiere Monday, star Katie Cassidy has only one piece of advice for newcomer Ruby Rose, who's set to play Batwoman in this year's crossover event with "Supergirl" and "The Flash."

"Girl, get it. That's all I have to say," Cassidy says. "Good for you girl. Freaking get it."

The actress, who's been a mainstay in the "Arrowverse" since it's inception, isn't the only one who's pumped about the addition of the Gotham hero. Fellow "Arrow" star Rick Gonzalez is also pretty excited about the upcoming "Elseworld" team-up episodes, and hopes that his character Rene, also known as the vigilante Wild Dog, gets a chance to tango with Batwoman on the small screen.

"I'm hoping Wild Dog gets to interact with Batwoman," says Gonzalez. "I remember my first crossover, I got to interact with Supergirl and the Flash. Just to see Wild Dog right there in the mix with them was iconic for me in my mind."

While Cassidy and Gonzalez can't wait to see Batwoman take up her cape and cowl, some fans weren't exactly happy with the casting of Rose when it was announced over the summer. The actress received a ton of backlash from angry social media users, who claimed that she wasn't lesbian, a trait that's been integral to the modern, Kate Kane version of Batwoman. Rose, who came out at 12 and describes herself as gender fluid, posted one final message addressing the issue before deleting her Twitter account, saying that she was often called "too gay" for many roles in the past. "How do y'all flip like that? I didn't change."

Katie Cassidy

Controversy aside, Gonzalez believes Rose's Batwoman will be a beacon of hope to members of the LGBTQ community. The actor has nothing but praise for the CW and "Arrowverse" architect Greg Berlanti, as they've consistently featured diverse characters and cast members with each of the network's superhero series.

"I'm always a big fan of identity and using our platform to give people empowerment through identity," says Gonzalez. "If we only allow a certain identity to evolve or to succeed in TV and film, then we're kind of alienating the world. We're kind of saying that they don't matter and this is the only thing that matters."

"What I love about

the CW and Warner Bros., DC and Greg Berlanti, who's championing not just the LGBTQ community, but Latinos and blacks and all races and cultures," he adds. "That's what he wants to see, diversity at its finest, because that's the real world."

Batwoman won't be the only hero joining the fray when the three-night crossover airs Dec. 9-11, as the event will also mark the debut of Bitsie Tulloch's Lois Lane and the return of Tyler Hoechlin's Superman. Although major details are being kept under wraps, "Elseworld" will bring together heroes from across the CW's DC multiverse for what's sure to be a game-changing team-up.

"What I love about the CW and Warner Bros., DC and Greg Berlanti, who's championing not just the LGBTQ community, but Latinos and blacks and all races and cultures"

Rick Gonzalez

"If Wild Dog can throw some jabs at Superman, then my bucket list is done," jokes Gonzalez. "Well maybe not done, but it'll be up there."

Before we get to that point, Gonzalez and company have to deal with the ramifications from the "Arrow" season 6 finale and how that will impact the team going into season 7. The show's status quo has shifted significantly, as Stephen Amell's Oliver Queen will kick off the new season in jail, leaving Star City without its beloved Green Arrow.

Gonzalez notes that Team Arrow will have to find a way forward without their fearless leader, all while dealing with the impending threat of last year's big baddie, Ricardo Diaz (Kirk Acevedo), who evaded capture in the finale and has now joined forces with the mysterious and deadly Longbow Hunters.

"With new Team Arrow, a lot of questions will be answered right away," says Gonzalez.

For Cassidy, she's excited to see the evolution of her character Black Siren, a villain from another Earth and mirrors her original character Black Canary, who was killed off the show in season 4. According to the actress, this season will take a deeper dive into what makes this version of Laurel Lance tick.

"There's a lot, but it's cool to get an opportunity to explore the backstory of Black Siren," says Cassidy. "We'll dive more into her story."

Overall, both stars can't wait for the fans to see how grounded and real "Arrow" season 7 will be.

"What I love about being on the show, season 7, we create a lot of storylines for each other and, at the end of the day, we don't throw anything away," says Gonzalez. "We still carry the weight of everything that we've been through, everything that we deal with, to make it super believable and make the fans invested."

Jodie Whittaker talks about the challenges of 'Doctor Who' secrecy

The first female Doctor thought telling no one about her casting was the hardest part.

ANDREW HUSBAND
letters@metro.us

Last week, the 11th season of "Doctor Who," which was rebooted in 2005 after the popular British science-fiction series had been off the air for decades, premiered.

It was a big moment for fans of the show and genre fans at large for many reasons. For starters, it was the first new "Doctor Who" episode since the previous actor to play the role, Peter Capaldi, signed off last Christmas.

More importantly, however, was the fact that Sunday's premiere debuted Jodie Whittaker's new take as the Doctor's 13th incarnation. Why? Because in program's nearly 55-year history, the "Broadchurch" actress is the first woman to ever play the titular character. And as she explained at the 2018 New York Comic Con, keeping this fact a secret was one of the hardest parts of taking the job.

"In this day and age, and with people's ability to find things out, the secrecy was the hardest part," she says. "It's really hard. You work so hard on something and it's not just us. We rock up last to set and get to leave the first, just so we can avoid spoilers."

Of course, Whittaker is quick to note that her playing the Doctor and keeping it a secret before the official reveal was only the hardest part for her.

"Everyone else who's building the sets, creating the monsters and doing all the work in post-production, like writing the incredible new score – they're doing the hard work," she says. "Though yes, all of us have to keep that hard work a secret, too. Because it's really such a wonderful adventure if you don't already know the ending, and it's hard in this day and age to keep it that way."

Whittaker here specifically talks about spoilers, which television and film studios will often go to extreme measures to prevent from ever happening.

"It was all so much easier before technology," she notes, "but because of technology, this wonderful series will also be reaching however many corners of the earth they can get it to. That's really wonderful if you think about it. But even then, it's difficult because when we're not able to tell anyone anything, we have to ask them to trust us."

The inherent difficulties of keeping an incredibly popular show's secrets from being spoiled notwithstanding, Whittaker isn't wrong about technology's benefits in this case. The day of the first episode's premiere, BBC, BBC America and several other BBC affiliates broadcast "The Woman Who Fell To Earth" as part of an unprecedented global simulcast. As a result, the episode reached 2.6 million total viewers in the United States alone.

New episodes of "Doctor Who" air Sundays at 8 p.m. on BBC America.

If Jayson Tatum emerges as a top 20 player this season, is Golden State's lineup really that much better than the Celtics'? Add in the fact that Brad Stevens has had more success against the Warriors than any other NBA coach and the Celtics are worth taking a flier on to win this year's NBA championship. Particularly with those odds.

Jets win second-straight vs. Colts

Efficient Darnold, Jason Myers, active defense fuel Jets to third win of 2018.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The New York Jets put on a special teams and defensive show at MetLife Stadium on Sunday, defeating the Indianapolis Colts 42-34 in Week 6 action.

In a season of inconsistent kicking, Jason Myers reminded the Jets that they are set at the position as he knocked home a franchise-record seven field goals on the day, accounting for 24 of the Jets' points.

A shorthanded New York Jets defense, without two of their best cornerbacks in Trumaine Johnson and Buster Skrine, picked off Indianapolis Colts quarterback Andrew Luck three times and forced four total turnovers.

Not to be lost in the win was the efficient performance of rookie quarterback Sam Darnold, who completed 24-of-30 passes for 280 yards and two touchdowns on the day, picking up the slack for a banged-up backfield as Isaiah Crowell, who put up 219 yards last week, was playing with a knee injury.

It's the first time since 2012 that the Jets have eclipsed the 40-point mark at home.

It's the first time the Jets have won two consecutive games since Weeks 3-5 of last year.

The defense got things started off on the right foot quickly as Morris Claiborne picked off a Luck pass that clanged off the hands of running back Marlon Mack and returned it 17 yards for a touchdown on just the second play of the game.

The Jets defense came up with four turnovers in Week 6. GETTY IMAGES

Luck quickly redeemed the Colts offense on their ensuing drive, hitting Marcus Johnson for a 34-yard touchdown pass. It capped off a 75-yard drive that took just 2:32 and saw Luck go 3-of-4 for 83 yards.

After a Jets field goal momentarily gave the hosts the lead, miscues gave the Colts a chance to take a commanding lead.

A Darnold interception (one of his only blemishes on the day) and Quincy Enunwa fumble gave the Colts possession with a short field. But both first-half possessions would end with only a field goal as the Jets defense stiffened up in the red zone.

They didn't just come up big in the red zone as they helped spark a 20-0 run that would carry into the second half.

Jamal Adams forced a Robert Turbin fumble, recovered by Jordan Jenkins on the Colts 43-yard line before Darnold managed to take the NFL's worst red zone offense and regain the lead with 2:35 left in the half when he hit Terrelle Pryor for a seven-yard score.

Myers would tack on a pair of field goals before the half ended, going into the break with a 23-13 lead. One of those possessions was thanks to an interception by Avery Williamson, who ensured that it was the first time in three years that the Colts committed three turnovers in a half.

Starting the second half with possession, the Jets extended their lead to 17 after Darnold hit a wide-open Chris Herndon for a 32-yard score.

Indianapolis punched right back with 14 unanswered points of their own as Luck hit both of his tight ends, Eric Ebron and Erik Swoope, at the end of the third quarter and with the first play of the fourth quarter to bring the Colts back to within five.

But three more field goals from Myers, one off a Darron Lee interception of Luck, was enough to keep Indianapolis at bay after a late score with 1:51 to go in the game.

What happens if Eli is benched?

It's becoming more and more obvious as the New York Giants stumble through the 2018 season that the end is very near for veteran quarterback Eli Manning.

At 37 years old, one of the greatest passers in franchise history is stuck behind a bad offensive line and a conservative scheme that is revolving around dink-and-dump passes. It's a bad combination for a quarterback who never was mobile, especially when he has no time in the pocket.

It's unfair to pin the blame of the Giants' offensive inconsistencies solely on Manning, but the attack could see a notable improvement if they had a quarterback capable of extending the play.

Giants management have to be realists here and realize things are not going to get better for a 1-5 team that was just thrashed by the Philadelphia Eagles 34-13 on Thursday night. Had it not been for rookie running back Saquon Barkley, New York would have been shut out.

Eli Manning and the Giants offense have been a liability this year. GETTY IMAGES

If the organization is content on tanking, then they will let Manning stay under center and continuously get punished week in and week out. If not, they might want to bench the franchise's all-time leading passer.

But who could step up? The options are underwhelming, and even controversial.

ALEX TANNEY

Listed as the primary backup for Manning on the Giants' depth chart, Alex Tanney was acquired in May after being released by the Tennessee Titans.

The 30-year-old is a professional clipboard holder considering he has appeared in just one game since 2012. That came three years ago with Tennessee.

During the preseason this year, Tanney completed 54.5 percent of his passes on 33 attempts for 177 yards and a touchdown.

KYLE LAULETTA

Kyle Lauletta is the third-string quarterback for the Giants after being drafted in the fourth round out of Richmond.

He has the look of a quarterback at 6-foot-3, 220 pounds, and performed admirably in the preseason despite getting limited reps. In four games, he attempted just 35 passes, completing 17 of them for 194 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions.

Lauletta has a decently big arm capable of throwing the deep ball and has the mobility needed to give his receivers added time to get open. However, it might be too difficult a task to throw him behind a struggling offensive line to start his pro career.

COLIN KAEPERNICK

The controversial quarterback remains unsigned but is the best free-agent quarterback available should a team need a passer in a bind.

While he went 3-16 in his final 19 starts as a quarterback, Kaepernick's surgically repaired shoulder is fully healthy considering he hasn't appeared in an NFL game since 2016. The 30-year-old's powerful arm helped the 49ers reach the Super Bowl in 2013. He would be one of the most athletic quarterbacks should he make his way back to the pros given his ability to move in the pocket, something the Giants need.

His signing would likely cause a divide in the fanbase and bring more press to a team that has had plenty for the all the wrong reasons in 2018. That's something that might scare the Mara family away from giving Kaepernick a shot. JOE PANTORNO

Manny Machado will be one of the majors' biggest free-agent prizes this winter. GETTY IMAGES

Does Didi injury allow Yanks to pursue Manny?

The Yankees look to be in need of a starting shortstop in 2019.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

New York Yankees manager Aaron Boone might have announced on Friday an avenue for his club to acquire soon-to-be-free-agent shortstop Manny Machado this winter.

As the Yankees cleaned out their lockers after being eliminated earlier in the week at the hands of the Boston Red Sox in the ALDS, Boone revealed that starting shortstop Didi Gregorius will undergo Tommy John surgery this winter and is expected to miss a considerable amount of the 2019 season.

For the 29 other teams of Major League Baseball, this would be considered an enormous loss. Gregorius has become one of the premier offensive shortstops in the game, setting a Yankees record last year for most home runs by a shortstop with 25 before breaking it in 2018 with 27.

Personally, for Gregorius, it's a tough break considering this is his final season under his current contract before going into a fourth year of arbitration. He'll become an unrestricted free agent in 2020.

It could be signaling an end to his time in New York, seeing as the Yankees will have to find a replacement for at least the start of the season. The need could very much throttle the Yankees into the driver's seat for the Machado sweepstakes, the 26-year-old currently playing in NLCS as his Los Angeles Dodgers take on the Milwaukee Brewers.

As soon as the Dodgers season ends, Machado — along with Bryce Harper — becomes the free agency's biggest prize this winter.

Machado is coming off a career year, which began with the Baltimore Orioles before being dealt at the trade deadline to the Dodgers. In the combined 162 games he played with both teams, Machado posted a career-high .297 with 37 home runs and 107 RBI.

The Yankees were very much in the Machado sweepstakes in June and July leading up to the league's trade deadline. While there was initial hesitation to offer up top prospects for the star shortstop, the Yankees reportedly offered some of their top youngsters in July. However, it was the Dodgers who provided the Orioles with the best possible return.

While Machado would obviously bolster the shortstop position in the Bronx for the next decade, the Yankees would have to do a little work in order to make things work financially.

Already saddled with Giancarlo Stanton's enormous contract, Machado could very well see a deal in the neighborhood of $300 million.
